Flint Children’s Museum explore, play, learn.

2015 ANNUAL REPORT

ACCESSIBILITY

In 2015, the FCM hosted five Access Days, sponsored by supporting organizations like Kohl’s & Hurley, Belli Eye Care, Michigan Department of Health and Human Services, Greater Flint Association for the Education of Young Children, Genesee Health System, and Brown & Brown Insurance. Through these partnerships, we were able to provide free access to 3,267 visitors.

Monthly Tuesday’s made the Museum more affordable for lower-income families last year, and next year, we will be partnering with the Association of Children’s Museum to offer ‘Museums For All’ an even more expansive program that provides 50% off admission every day for qualifying visitors.

Marking our second year of partnership with the Flint Farmer’s Market, we also remain committed to providing an admission-free satellite location to all Market visitors.

PROGRAMMING

This year, we remained committed to providing engaging hands-on programming, and focused even more closely on activities related to STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Arts, and Math) and Next Generation Science Standards.

Whether building mini skyscrapers or exploring messy science, visitors to the FCM had more fun learning than ever before.

In the Discovery Zone—our rotating exhibit space—visitors were transported to ancient Egypt, learned all about insects in “A Bug’s Life,” and explored health and fitness with “Eat Well, Play Well,” our first traveling exhibit.

The FCM also expanded its outreach efforts, bringing our programs to more schools and groups outside the Museum—we were even named “1st place to return” by Montague Elementary!
